What is the Child Protective Services Law (CPSL)?

The PA Child Protective Services Law (CPSL) was signed into law in 1975. It was enacted to protect children from abuse, allow the opportunity for healthy growth and development, and, whenever possible, preserve and stabilize the family.

What is child abuse?

Child abuse, according to the CPSL, means to intentionally, knowingly or recklessly do any of the following:

• Cause bodily injury to a child through any recent act or failure to act;
• Fabricate, feign, or intentionally exaggerate or induce a medical symptom or disease which results in a potentially harmful medical evaluation or treatment to the child through any recent act;
• Cause or substantially contribute to serious mental injury to a child through any act or failure to act or a series of such acts or failures to act;
• Cause sexual abuse or exploitation of a child through any act or failure to act;

• Create a reasonable likelihood of bodily injury to a child through any recent act or failure to act;
• Create a likelihood of sexual abuse or exploitation of a child through any recent act or failure to act;
• Cause serious physical neglect of a child;
• Cause the death of the child through any act or failure to act; or
• Engage a child in a severe form of trafficking in persons or sex trafficking, as those terms are defined under section 103 of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (114 Stat. 1466, 22 U.S.C. § 7102).

Child abuse also includes certain acts in which the act itself constitutes abuse without any resulting injury or condition. These recent acts include any of the following:

• Kicking, biting, throwing, burning, stabbing, or cutting a child in a manner that endangers the child;
• Unreasonably restraining or confining a child, based on consideration of the method, location or the duration of the restraint or confinement;
• Forcefully shaking a child under one year of age;
• Forcefully slapping or otherwise striking a child under one year of age;
• Interfering with the breathing of a child;
• Causing a child to be present during the operation of a methamphetamine laboratory, provided that the violation is being investigated by law enforcement; and/or
• Leaving a child unsupervised with an individual, other than the child’s parent, who the parent knows or reasonably should have known was required to register as a Tier II or III sexual offender or has been determined to be a sexually violent predator or violent delinquent.

As pertaining to the CPSL, “recent” is defined as an abusive act within two years from the date the report is made to ChildLine. Sexual abuse, serious mental injury, serious physical neglect, and deaths have no time limit.
Who can be a perpetrator?
A perpetrator of child abuse can be a:
• Child’s parent;
• Spouse or former spouse of the parent;
• Paramour or former paramour of the parent;
• Person 14 years of age or older responsible for the welfare of a child or having direct contact with children as an employee of child care services, a school, or through a program, activity or service, such as a baby sitter or day care staff person;
• Person 14 years of age or older residing in the same home as the child;
• Relative who is 18 years of age or older who does not reside in the same home as the child, but is related within the third degree of consanguinity or affinity by birth or adoption to the child; or
• An individual 18 years of age or older who engages a child in severe forms of trafficking in persons or sex trafficking, as those terms are defined under section 103 of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 (114 Stat. 1466, 22 U.S.C. § 7102).

A perpetrator of child abuse for failure to act can be a:
• Child’s parent;
• Spouse or former spouse of the parent;
• Paramour or former paramour of the parent; or
• Person 18 years of age or older who is responsible for the child’s welfare or who resides in the same home as the child.

Mandated reporters do not have to determine whether or not the person meets the definition of perpetrator in order to make the report.

Who is a mandated reporter?
The following adults are considered mandated reporters and are required to report suspected child abuse if they have reasonable cause to suspect that a child is a victim of child abuse:
• Individuals licensed or certified to practice in any health-related field under the jurisdiction of the Department of State
• Medical examiner, coroner, or funeral director
• Employees of a health care facility or providers licensed by the Department of Health who are engaged in the admission, examination, care, or treatment of individuals.
• School employees
• Employees of child care services who have direct contact with children in the course of employment.
• Clergymen, priests, rabbis, ministers, Christian Science practitioners, religious healers, or spiritual leaders of any regularly established church or other religious organization.
• Individuals — paid or unpaid — who, on the basis of the individuals’ role as an integral part of a regularly scheduled program, activity, or service, are responsible for the child’s welfare or have direct contact with children
• Employees of a social services agency who has direct contact with children in the course of employment
• Peace officers or law enforcement officials
• Emergency medical services providers certified by the Department of Health
• Employees of a public library who have direct contact with children in the course of employment
• Individuals supervised or managed by a person listed above, who have direct contact with children in the course of employment
• Independent contractors who has direct contact with children
• Attorneys affiliated with an agency, institution, organization or other entity, including a school or regularly established religious organization that are responsible for the care, supervision, guidance, or control of children
• Foster parents
• Adult family members who are responsible for the child’s welfare and provide services to a child in a family living home, community home for individuals with an intellectual disability or host home for children which are subject to supervision or licensure by the department under Articles IX and X of the Human Services Code.

When must mandated reporters make a report?
Mandated reporters are required to make a report of suspected child abuse if they have reasonable cause to suspect that a child is a victim of child abuse under any of the following circumstances:

- They come into contact with the child in the course of employment, occupation, and practice of a profession or through a regularly scheduled program, activity or service;
- They are directly responsible for the care, supervision, guidance, or training of the child, or are affiliated with an agency, institution, organization, school, regularly established church, or religious organization or other entity that is directly responsible for the care, supervision, guidance, or training of the child;
- A person makes a specific disclosure to the mandated reporter that an identifiable child is the victim of child abuse; or
- An individual 14 years of age or older makes a specific disclosure to the mandated reporter that the individual has committed child abuse.

It is not required that the child come before the mandated reporter in order to make a report of suspected child abuse nor are they required to identify the person responsible for the child abuse to make a report of suspected child abuse.

What if a mandated reporter has general concerns about a child, but does not suspect abuse?
Concerns related to the safety of children including, but not limited to inadequate housing, clothing, and supervision, can be referred to ChildLine or the county children and youth agency for assessment as general protective services cases.

How do mandated reporters report suspected child abuse?
Mandated reporters must make an immediate and direct report of suspected child abuse to ChildLine either electronically at www.compass.state.pa.us/cwis or by calling 1-800-932-0313.

Does anyone within my institution, school, facility, or agency need to be notified after a report is made?
After making the report to ChildLine, mandated reporters are required to immediately thereafter notify the person in charge of the institution, school, facility, or agency or the designated agent of the person in charge.

What else must be done after making a report to ChildLine?
If an oral report was made to ChildLine, a report of suspected child abuse (CY-47) must also be completed and forwarded to the county children and youth agency within 48 hours after making the report. This form can be obtained at www.KeepKidsSafe.pa.gov or from the children and youth agency. If a report is made electronically, no CY-47 is required to be completed.

Does a mandated reporter have to know for sure that the child was abused?
A mandated reporter is responsible to make the report when they suspect a child is a victim of abuse.

Are mandated reporters required to report when they learn of the abuse from someone other than the child who was allegedly abused?
Nothing requires a child to come before the mandated reporter in order to make a report.

Does a mandated reporter have to give their name?
The law requires that the mandated reporter
The reporter identify themselves and where they can be reached. This information is helpful so that if clarification on the situation or additional information is needed, the Children & Youth caseworker can contact the reporter.

Will the name of the mandated reporter be released?
The identity of the person making the report is kept confidential with the exception of being released to the law enforcement officials or the district attorney's office.

What if a mandated reporter fails to follow the law?
The penalties for a mandated reporter who willfully fails to report child abuse range from a misdemeanor of the second degree to a felony of the second degree.

Will a mandated reporter have to testify in court?
Mandated reporters may be required to testify in civil or criminal court cases, including juvenile or criminal court proceedings.

What happens after a report is made?
- ChildLine forwards the report of suspected child abuse to the local county Children & Youth agency, which investigates the report to determine if the allegations can be substantiated as child abuse/neglect.
- The necessary services are also arranged for or provided to prevent the further maltreatment of the child and to preserve the family unit.
- The county Children & Youth agency must begin an investigation with 24 hours. A thorough inquiry is conducted to determine if the child was abused and what services are appropriate for the child and family. This investigation must be completed within 30 days unless the agency provides justification as to why the investigation cannot be completed, including attempts being made to obtain medical records or interview subjects of the report.
- If the alleged perpetrator named in the report does not meet the definition of perpetrator under the CPSL, but does suggest the need for investigation, ChildLine will forward the information to the district attorney's office in the respective county.

How does a mandated reporter learn what happened on the report they have made and what the agency is doing to protect the child from further abuse?
Mandated reporters will receive information from the department regarding the final status of the report — whether it was unfounded, indicated or founded, as well as the services planned or provided to protect the child.

What will be done for the child?
Pennsylvania is committed to advancing child-protection policies and practices that, when possible, keep children safely in their own homes connected to nurturing and protective adults. Under Pennsylvania law, it is the responsibility of the county Children & Youth agency to investigate reports of child abuse and neglect or assess a family for General Protective Services. County Children & Youth agencies, in partnership with families and community-based agencies, strive to provide services to prevent any further abuse of the child and to ensure the child’s well-being and healthy development.

The county agency and its partners work to strengthen the child’s family toward breaking the cycle of abuse and to preserve the family, whenever possible. Should the child be found to be in danger of continued harm, the county agency may petition the court to have the child removed from the home and ongoing court monitoring to determine if the child can safely be reunited with his/her family.
